

Dear Clarion University neighbor,

Clarion University has a proud tradition of working with and supporting our communities. In donating our time and talent to a variety of helping efforts, Clarion University and its affiliated organizations are dedicated to improving the quality of life for individuals and communities both near and far.

Community engagement is one of four priority areas that Clarion University identified last year as a strategic direction (www.clarion.edu/strategic). As a publicly engaged university, we encourage personal and professional development for all of our students, faculty and staff through community service. We also value the opportunity to give back to the communities where we live and work, as well as to have your input on projects that impact all of us.

I hope you enjoy reading about how our students, faculty and staff have joined together to make a difference in our communities. As always, I look forward to seeing you on campus and in the community.

Karen M. Whitney
President

Community Connections is a biannual publication of Clarion University Office of the President. We value your feedback. To respond to topics in this newsletter or to share thoughts about any matter concerning Clarion University, email president@clarion.edu or send mail to: Office of the President, Clarion University, 840 Wood St., Clarion, PA 16214.

Clarion University employees answer call to give

Each year, Clarion University faculty and staff have the opportunity to contribute to the State Employee Combined Appeal (SECA) campaign, and each year they say "yes." In 2012, faculty and staff pledged $36,402 to SECA, the commonwealth's annual combined fundraising drive, which supports hundreds of participating charities that serve communities both locally and globally.

"We are particularly proud of our spirit of philanthropy right here at Clarion."

Karen Whitney, President

Led by President Karen Whitney, 190 faculty and staff members donated $36,402 to participating charities which are part of eight umbrella organizations: America's Charities, Christian Service Charities, Community Health Charities of Pennsylvania, Global Impact, Independent Charities of America, United Negro College Fund, United Ways of Pennsylvania and the Wildlands Conservancy.

Of the amount pledged, $21,736 will stay in Clarion County and is directed to:

- American Red Cross – $297
- Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Clarion County – $840
- Clarion-Forest Visiting Nurses Association – $1,327
- PASSAGES – $1,761
- SAFE – $2,152
- The Arc of Clarion County – $509
- United Way of Clarion County – $14,849

Faculty and staff are able to make contributions in the form of payroll deductions, checks and money orders, continuing a long history of giving. Over the past 20 years, state employees have raised more than $81 million for SECA.

Bachelor's-to-MBA program is a focused road to success

Starting in fall 2013, Clarion University students can choose an academic path that will grant them both a bachelor's degree and a Master of Business Administration in just five years.

Students in the bachelor's-to-MBA program with either business or non-business academic interests – including chemistry, communications, computer information systems, history, modern languages, psychology, theatre and more – will be able to obtain both an undergraduate bachelor's degree in their chosen field, and an MBA.

The curriculum is designed for the serious, focused student, said Dr. Ron Nowaczyk, Clarion University provost. Ideally, the student begins the program freshman year.

"We will be intentionally combining discipline-specific material and business applications in courses at both undergraduate and graduate levels," he said.

Nowaczyk said that an individual who combines a non-business degree with an MBA is one who stands out in the job field.

Clarion University College of Business Administration and its programs are fully accredited by The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International. The MBA program was recently recognized as a "Top 20 best buy" by geteducated.com.

Do you know someone who would be a good fit for the bachelor's-to-MBA program? Contact the Office of Admissions at 800-672-7171, ext. 1, or admissions@clarion.edu.

Tippin renovation is in planning phase

Clarion University continues to progress toward renovation of the 45-year-old Tippin Gymnasium and Natatorium. The university is working with architects DLA+, Pittsburgh, and Gund Partnership, Boston. Representatives from the firms visited Clarion in December to discuss project goals with President Karen Whitney and her executive council, as well as with university stakeholders.

Plans call for adding a fitness and dance studio to Tippin, and replacing the building's HVAC, electrical and lighting systems, while relocating the pool to an addition to the Student Recreation Center.

Ric Taylor, director of facilities planning and management, said the target completion date is October 2016.

Master plan will outline university's future

Clarion University has begun working with the Pittsburgh office of Perkins Eastman, a planning, design and consulting firm, to develop a campus master plan. A Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education requirement, the plan will provide a vision for facilities at both the Clarion and Venango College campuses for the next 15 years.

Ric Taylor, director of facilities planning and management, said the plan looks at the adequacy of buildings, traffic flow, pedestrian flow, technical studies and campus image. Students studying geographic information systems will help with mapping.

"A critical component is the landscape master plan; we must be sensitive to the campus environment and work with it," he said. The student Green Team will be involved.

The Clarion and Oil City communities are encouraged to weigh in on the plan. Forums will be scheduled.

Veterans invited to share war stories

Clarion University Department of Library Science is partnering with the Library of Congress to conduct interviews for the Veterans History Project. Established in 2000 by act of Congress, the VHP seeks to compile "a lasting legacy of recorded interviews, memoirs and other documents" that chronicle the wartime experiences of veterans and other citizens.

Library science students conduct the interviews, write the interview logs and follow up on details necessary to the project's success.

"Through the eyes of Clarion County veterans, I have witnessed the second airliner strike the World Trade Center on 9/11, participated in the relief of Bastogne during the Battle of the Bulge in 1945, and gone along on convoy duty in Iraq, to name just a few," said Dr. James T. Maccaferri, associate professor of library science and project advisor.

All local veterans are encouraged to schedule an interview, which typically lasts between 30 and 60 minutes. Contact Maccaferri at jmaccaferri@clarion.edu or 814-393-2271.

Holocaust Remembrance brings speakers to Clarion

Clarion University will bring two speakers in April as part of its yearly Holocaust Remembrance activities.

Dr. Christopher Leighton, a Presbyterian minister and director of the Institute of Christian and Jewish Studies in Baltimore, will present "Religion and Violence: Reflections on the Jewish-Christian Encounter," at 7:30 p.m. April 1 in Hart Chapel, Clarion campus, and Esther Bauer, a Holocaust survivor, will recount her experiences at 7:30 p.m. April 8 in Robert W. Rhoades Center, Venango College, Oil City.

Both presentations are free and open to the public.

Reid

Clarion University police chief will assume emergency management director post

Clarion University President Karen M. Whitney has appointed Glen Reid, director of public safety, as director of emergency management, effective Jan. 7.

Revisiting the plan has been on Whitney's mind for a few months, but the Newtown, Conn., shootings inspired her to act now. While she can't guarantee that crises won't occur, Whitney said she can ensure that the university, its employees and students are prepared to act in an emergency or crisis.

Reid will work collaboratively, across the campuses, to:

- Update and implement an emergency-crisis plan;
- Prepare all employees and students to act if an emergency/crisis occurs;
- Designate employees to respond to an incident; and

- Develop and implement a plan to provide support and care to those affected after an emergency/crisis.

In assuming her new responsibilities, Reid has stepped down as chief of police, a position she has held since 2008. Sgt. Marcie Trombetta will serve as acting chief of police while a search for a new director is conducted.

University donations boost Clarion Hospital capital campaign

Donations from two Clarion University entities have brought Clarion Hospital $50,000 closer to its $4.2 million capital campaign goal.

Clarion Students' Association and Clarion University Foundation, Inc., each gave $25,000 to the campaign, the goal of which is to re-establish radiological care for cancer patients in the Clarion area.

The funds originated from prior years' Clarion University Book Center earnings.

"We are excited that Clarion Students' Association and Clarion University Foundation are partnering with us to restore cancer care to our community," said John Stroup, director of Clarion Hospital Foundation.

"The (Clarion University) foundation determined that adding this capability will reintroduce much needed services to our community," said Charles P. Leach Jr., president of Clarion University Foundation, Inc.

The campaign will cover the cost of a CT scanner and MRI for detecting cancer, and a linear accelerator, which administers radiation to cancer cells.

"Clarion University's gracious support further proves how invaluable the institution is to Clarion and the surrounding communities."

*John Stroup, Director
Clarion Hospital Foundation*

"Clarion Students' Association Board of Directors allocated the funds to the hospital's capital campaign from its Special Projects Fund," said Shelly Wilson, the board's interim business manager. "The $25,000 pledge will be paid in increments of $5,000 over the next five years."
