

Undergraduate Opportunities

Clarion is very interested in developing well-rounded students who contribute to the academic community as well as the non-academic university community. In such a capacity, the department sends students to the National Model United Nations Conference, houses the PEACE Club, and houses the Omega chapter of Omega Delta Epsilon, the International Economics Honor Society.

National Model United Nations Conference

The Department of Economics offers a unique opportunity for 10-15 students from any major at Clarion University to participate in the Model United Nations Conference every year in New York City. As delegates from the Republic of Costa Rica, they interact with students representing many other countries, conduct research on topics of interest to Costa Rica, develop position/resolution papers, and argue before the general assembly.

P.E.A.C.E Club

The Department of Economics also sponsors the PEACE Club (People Encouraging Awareness of Community Economics), which is open to all majors at Clarion University. The club has engaged in direct action fulfilling its mission by sending people to rebuild New Orleans and New York City after devastating hurricanes. The club is also active locally fulfilling its mission in its own backyard.

Omega Delta Epsilon

Exceptional students in economics become members of this prestigious organization through academics as well as recognized leadership and activity in student and community affairs.
